GALAXIS G-FLAME

This nozzle is intended to be used with gas cartridges (aërosols). To gain different flame heights this nozzle is available in different sizes (S / M / L / XL / XXL).

The XXL nozzle comes standard with the cartridge option.

This type of nozzle must be used when propane gas is used. The flame height can only be regulated in this case by adjusting the pressure from the propane gas on the propane regulator.

This nozzle has been designed for the usage in conjunction with liquid propane or when the power upgrade (4 cartridges) is used (only possible with usage temperatures above 5°C). The flame height can not be regulated.

CO₂

Carbon dioxide (CO₂). A non-flammable, colourless and odourless gas that is also available in solid (dry ice) and liquid form. It's one of the pillars of our industry and is used in all forms.

Liquid CO₂ is CO₂ gas that is highly compressed and cooled down to a liquid form. CO₂ gas generally gets transported, stored and handled in liquid form, either in cylinders or non-insulated storage tanks at a pressure of approximately 57 bar at 20°C. This pressure is needed to keep the CO₂ in a liquid phase.

Liquid CO₂ is used for CO₂ jets and low smoke machines. To obtain the liquid CO₂ from the cylinder these cylinders need to be equipped with a siphon tube or so called dip tube. When liquid CO₂ comes out of a CO₂ jet it instantly and rapidly expands. This reaction results in a dense white smoke cloud. The effect from a CO₂ jet is very much effected by the humidity. The higher the level of humidity, the more visible the cloud of fog produced.

Solid CO₂ or 'dry ice' sublimates at a temperature of -78,5°C. Extremely cold, so the solid is dangerous to handle without protection because of freezing burns (frostbite) risks. Dry ice is often used in combination with hot water to produce low smoke. A nice effect on weddings, to name one.

CO₂ is 1,5 times heavier than air and therefore tends to flow downward. CO₂ is essential for us as humans but is also deadly in high (19 vol. %) concentrations. When the air we breathe contains 3 – 5 vol. % CO₂, we experience headache. At 8 – 10 vol. % CO₂, unconsciousness.

GERB / JET

A Gerb is a fountain effect. When fired the device produces a column of silver or gold sparks. Gerbs can be very varied, ranging from shot shooting height like 1 meter high up to a stunning 20 meter high. Besides the heights also the duration can varyiate from 1/8th of a second up to 2 minutes duration. Shorter duration gerbs are often called Jets.

MINE

A device containing multiple stars of self-consuming pyrotechnic composition. The stars are propelled into the air via a lifting charge, producing various colours, glitter and crackle effects in an inverted cone (bouquet) pattern.

COMET

Very similar effect to a mine but instead of multiple stars a single star of self consuming pyrotechnic composition is fired in the air and is producing various colours, glitter and crackle effects.

AIRBURST

A pyrotechnic device designed to simulate an outdoor aerial fireworks shell. Unlike outdoor aerial shells, airbursts are suspended from overhead rigging and fired 'in place' and are not launched from a mortar tube. The effect is a very fast omni-directional burst of sparks that are intended to burn along their path and before reaching the floor. They can create a popping sound that varies in loudness and produce a range of colours.

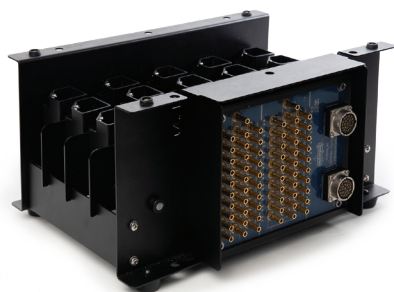

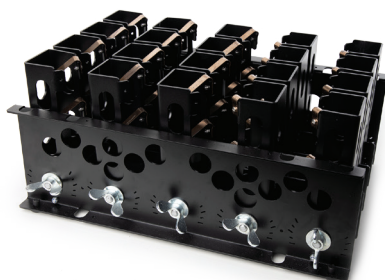

CONFETTI (STREAMER) AIRBURST

These devices use flame retardant confetti or streamers and a small pyrotechnic charge. When ignited the charge propels the confetti or streamers in all directions.

LINE ROCKET

A line rocket is a tube device designed to produce thrust. The device is attached to a carrier design to slide freely on a metal cable. Upon ignition, the line rocket quickly travels the length of the cable while producing a tail of sparks or sometimes a loud whistling sound. Duration of the effect varies but is usually not longer than 5 seconds.

COEFFICIENT RATES

The rental price depends on the number of days the equipment is used. Rehearsal days or show days count as usage days. The final dry hire rental price is the result of a start rate x the coefficient for the usage days as in the overview below.

Days of use*	Coefficient rate
1 - 3 days	1
4 - 7 days	1,5
8 - 14 days	2
15 - 21 days	2,5
22 - 28 days	3
29 - 35 days	3,5
36 - 42 days	4
43 - 49 days	4,5
50 - 56 days	5
57 - 63 days	5,5
64 - 70 days	6

* Days of use = rehearsal + show day(s)

Transport and installation days are free of charge with a maximum of:

- ✧ 4 days within Belgium
- ✧ 8 days within Europe
- ✧ 10 days worldwide, outside Europe
